Case Blue Scenario 7.16 - 5 June 1942: Full-On Moscow Offensive: Guderian's Blitzkrieg Map Area

This is a “what if” scenario simulating the German Summer 42 campaign assuming the forces retained for the OPERATION KREMLIN deception plan, plus reinforcements denied Army Group South were actually used for a full-on offensive on Moscow. This a modification of GB II Scenario 7.7 that utilizes the updated research and OOB/OOA work that went it into the Case Blue game. Players will need copies of both Guderian's Blitzkrieg II and Case Blue to play this Scenario.

General Information:

Map Area: GB II Maps A, B, C, D, E, & F

Set Up Order: Russian, Axis (see also the Special Rules below)

First Player on 5 June 42: Russian (see also the Special Rules below)

First Turn: 5 June 42

Last Turn: 29 May 43

Game Length: 104

Special Rules:

- 1) Russians set up first, including air forces, followed by the Axis
- 2) Weather on 5 June is Dry, Normal Flight
- 3) Russians move first:
  - a) Russians receive 5 June reinforcements and roll for supply and variable replacements
  - b) Russian can rebuild units per normal
  - c) Russian movement phase is limited to moving reinforcements, rebuilt units, and supply to the extent of movement/transport capacity. No other ground units may move.

d) Russians may move Reserve Markers, change units to move or combat mode, and rebase air units.

e) Russians may build hedgehogs and airbases

f) At this point, the Russian turn is completed. There is no Axis reaction phase or Russian barrage/combat, or exploit phase

4) Axis move second and have a normal player turn.

5) June 8 and beyond are normal turns

6) For the duration of the scenario, both the Axis Schwerpunkt and the Russian Main Effort are on the GBII mapset

7) Use the variable replacement, supply, and rail cap tables provided in the Revised Axis and Russian OOA booklets dated 2011.

The booklets can be downloaded from the OCS Depot at <http://www.ocsdepot.com/index.php/27-game-support/12-case-blue-4-10>

8) Use the OOA provided with this scenario for reinforcements. For both the Axis and Russian OOAs, if the reinforcement listed has no preface, it automatically arrives on the GBII mapset in accordance with Case Blue rule 1.8.

9) Beginning the 5 June, 1942 turn, the Axis player rolls for reinforcements marked “EATG Variable”, “CB Variable”, and “11th Army Variable” using the Case Blue Scenario 7.16 Supplemental Charts provided.

10) Beginning the 26 June, 1942 turn, the Russian player rolls for reinforcements marked “EATG Variable” and “CB Variable” using the Case Blue Scenario 7.16 Supplemental Charts provided.

11) Variable reinforcements are listed for the Russian player from 5 through 22 June if players agree to begin the variable rolls earlier prior to the 26 June turn.

12) Implement CB Rule 1.13b - Double Russian Replacements starting the 26 June turn

Russian Information:

Reserve Markers Available: 12

Reinforcements: Use Scenario 7.16 Russian OOA.

Tree-Bark Soup Markers: 7

Massive Attack Markers: 3

Partisan Attacks Remaining:

None

CASE BLUE SCENARIO 7.16 MODIFIED/OPTIONAL/HOUSE RULES:

The following are modified/optional/house rules discussed and/or played with during testing (mix and match for scenario balance):

a) CB Rule 1.13b - Double Russian Replacements (modified): The Russian player gets to roll twice on the Variable Replacement Table starting the 26 June turn. By this time STAVKA would have seen that the Germans have sent almost all of their mobile reserves in support of the Moscow effort, and the 3-week delay before massive Russian reinforcements/replacements start arriving should incentivize the Germans to move quickly in the opening phases of the campaign. Feel this is a must have rule, though timing for start and roll required to receive reinforcements on the GBII mapset is negotiable.

b) In addition to above, on the 26 June turn the Russian player will also roll for ALL reinforcements marked “EATG Variable” and “CB Variable” to determine if they will be arriving on the GBII mapset using the modified OOA provided. For each reinforcement marked “EATG Variable”, a 1 die roll of 1-3 is a successful roll for reinforcement. For each reinforcement marked “CB Variable”, a 1 die roll of 1-3 or 6 is a successful roll for reinforcement. For all variable reinforcements, a Multi-Unit Corps is rolled for just one time, an all or nothing proposition. Feel this is a must have rule, though timing for start and roll required to receive reinforcements on the GBII mapset is negotiable.

c) EATG and CB Variable reinforcements are listed from 5 through 22 June turn for scenario balance adjustment as negotiated between the players.

d) The Axis player will also roll for ALL reinforcements marked “EATG Variable”, “CB Variable”, and “11th Army Variable” to determine if they will be arriving on the GBII mapset using the modified OOA provided. For each reinforcement marked “EATG Variable” and “11th Army Variable”, a 1 die roll of 1-3 is a successful roll for reinforcement. For each reinforcement marked “CB Variable”, a 1 die roll of 1-3 or 6 is a successful roll for reinforcement. For both all variable reinforcements, a Multi-Unit Division is rolled for just one time, an all or nothing proposition. Feel this is a must have rule, though timing for start and roll required to receive reinforcements on the GBII mapset is negotiable.

e) Use the Alternate Case Blue Weather Table. This table has a column of “None” for flight and is slightly less favorable for “Normal” flight conditions. John Kisner is the author of this table which can be found at <http://www.ocsdepot.com/images/contentfile/CB-Alternate-Weather-Table.pdf> Seemed more realistic

f) CB Rule 1.13a - Cheap Russian Infantry (modified) Use the following rule as modified (in blue) “One Pax can be used each turn to rebuild a 12-2-2, 11-1-1, or 10-0-1 Russian Infantry Division from the dead pile at full strength. If no such division is in the dead pile, there can be no cheap rebuild of this type this turn. The division rebuilt is selected randomly from all those of these three types currently in the dead pile (use a cup). Alternately, one step of a Guards Infantry Division may be built to be added to a Guards Infantry Division on the map or a step of a Guards Infantry Division in the dead pile. Only one type or the other may be built, not both.

Only the first Pax received each turn can be used for the ‘cheap’ division or Guard step rebuild (so if all map sets are not in play, the turn’s cheap division might be rebuilt outside the play area). Additional rifle divisions or Guards steps can of course be rebuilt at the usual cost.“

The rationale for this change is to stop the “dumbing down” of Russian infantry over time. Believe this is a fair rule for the Russians.

g) CB Rule 6.2f - No Hip Shoots during Limited Flight Status. This one makes sense, believe it is a fair rule.

h) OCS HR-8 - Barrage Losses (10.0) Roll a die to randomize which step is lost. Use this all the time, seems more realistic.

i) OCS HR-7 - Artillery Factors (10.1) Allow an artillery unit to fire less than its full barrage factors (to save on cost). Can go either way on this one.

j) OCS 21.2 Proportional Losses. My group always uses this rule. Your mileage may vary.

k) CB Rule 8.2e - Soviet Maskirovka. Did not implement this rule, seems involved but also realistic.

l) OCS 21.7 Revised Rebuilds – only used second bullet - Easier Rebuilds. Made reinforcement phase smoother

m) Used the standard CB tree bark and series “eat off the map” rules, not the new Cache rules. The new cache rules made some Russian cities invincible.

There are numerous OCS and CB optional/experimental/house rules to choose from. The above are the ones used by Consim Expo 2019 group. Season your own game to taste.

AXIS Summary of Changes:

- 1) Removed 20-4-3 Inf Div (17) from initial setup (scheduled to be removed on 15 June Turn).
- 2) Modified German reinforcement availability (see modified OOA).
- 3) 6 Pz and 7 Pz Divs Enter game per OOA as EATG Variable Reinforcements.
- 4) Eliminated 10 Pz as reinforcement/addition.
- 5) Did not strip PZ Bns from GBII units in June as called for in original OOA. Most in dead pile.
- 6) Added some air units from EATG/CB to GBII start, approx. 50% of the net A/C after accounting for removed air units. (15% of the fighters, 30% of the bombers, approx. 25% overall - Still less than total in original scenario and of lesser quality) See table analysis of air changes and new listing of A/C at start of scenario.
- 7) Added some air units from EATG dead pile to scenario dead pile. (approx. 2/3 of total from EATG/CB).
- 8) Removed non-rebuildable A/C types from dead pile. (Left Bf.110 due to rebuild in OOA).
- 9) Added M/U division losses from EATG dead pile to scenario dead pile if being used in scenario.
- 10) Combined GBII/EATG Emergency Reinforcements.
- 11) Counters in "Markers" box now per CB scenario.
- 12) Alert Bn's in "Available" box limited to 7 per CB Rule 2.6e – 0 Alert Bn Remain – 4 Alert HQs remain.
- 13) Added selected EATG and CB as variable reinforcements. See revised OOA and scenario supplemental tables.
- 14) Changed dead pile for set-up (cleaned up for units that will be on GBII map).
- 15) German 11th Army Variable Reinforcements – roll 1d6 – success on 1,2,3. These units are from the 11th Army after the siege of Sevastopol. Assume that they were NOT sent to AGN but was instead doled out to the various armies in support of the Moscow campaign. Note some unit are sent to the Emergency Reinforcement Box.
- 16) Added 22 Nov EATG Variable Reinforcements (less HQ) to Emergency Reinforcement box vs on map. Deleted HQ from OOA.
- 17) Added 19 Dec EATG Variable Reinforcements (less the two infantry divisions) to Emergency Reinforcement box vs on map.
- 18) Added 5 Feb 43 EATG Variable Reinforcement (KG Steinbr) to Emergency Reinforcement box vs on map.
- 19) Added 12 Feb 43 EATG Variable Reinforcement (5-4-6 PG Bn (Brgsthr)) to Emergency Reinforcement box vs on map.
- 20) Made very minor setup position changes in the south to ensure all units in trace supply at start.

RUSSIAN Summary of Changes:

- 1) Modified Russian reinforcement availability (see table)
- 2) Added some air units from EATG/CB to GBII start, approx. 50% of the net A/C after accounting for removed air units. (17% of the fighters, 41% of the bombers, approx. 29% overall) See table below and new listing of A/C at start of scenario.
- 3) Added some air units from EATG dead pile to scenario dead pile. (2/3 of total from EATG/CB)
- 4) Removed non-rebuildable A/C types from dead pile.
- 5) Removed Worker Alert Bns from “Available” Box. Stalingrad not in play during this game.
- 6) Made EATG Emergency Reinforcements available to GBII maps.
- 7) Added most of the EATG dead pile to the scenario dead pile
- 8) Added 23 Tk Corps (6 Tk Bde) and all of 21 Tk Corps to dead pile from EATG dead pile.
- 9) Added selected EATG and CB as variable reinforcements. See revised OOA and scenario supplemental tables.
- 10) Added 21 Tk Corps (189 Tank Bde and 9 Mtrd Inf Bde) to Dead Piles on 1 July turn rather than make it a variable reinforcement. If you want it, you can buy it.
- 11) In the original CB Russian OOA on both the 1 Oct 42 and 5 Nov 42 turns there are reinforcements to EATG of 6x Reserve Markers. For both turns, made 2x Reserve Markers as reinforcements for the GBII maps and made 4x Reserve Markers Variable EATG Reinforcements. Likely GBII maps will still get majority of markers, but will let the dice gods decide.
- 12) Made very minor setup position changes in the south to ensure all units in trace supply at start.

NOTES:

This effort came about after playing GBII Scenario 7.7 at the 2019 Consimworld Expo in Tempe AZ using the OCS V4.3 Series rules, the Case Blue V2.04 Game Specific Rulebook, and the 2012 Revised Axis and Russian OOAs. The setup was per the GBII Reprint Scenario Booklet, starting page 72, Scenario 7.7 26 June 42—Full On Moscow Offensive. The players involved were Chuck Soukup, Mark Veerman, and Rick White playing the Germans with Mark Fisher, Jim Hambacher, and Mike Hawkins as the Russians.

First, if all you own is GBII, play the game as outlined in GBII Scenario 7.7 using the GBII ruleset and the OOA that came with the game. I believe the scenario is optimized for those versions. The problems we encountered, I believe, were due to the scenario being written before the release of Case Blue in 2007, which included additional research and OOB changes. Add in the errata and OOB/OOA changes that came out in 2011/2012, the differences “conspired” to “break” the scenario, making it a slam dunk for the German player.

At any rate, once the game started and we began to see what was starting to transpire, we began to make rule modifications to balance the game. At some point during the week I opened my mouth and proclaimed I could “fix it”. Yeah, right. Not sure I really did that, but I think I at least have a start. The premise for the game is interesting, the gaming space is manageable, and I believe it could be a nail biter to the bitter end if I came halfway close to being correct in the assumptions we were making at the Expo.

So, what did I do? The first thing was taking advantage of all the research that went into the Case Blue scenarios and GBII reprint efforts. I decided to start the scenario on the June 5, 1942 turn rather than 26 June per the original scenario. June 5 is prior to the wholesale movement of Army Group Center units in front of Moscow to the south in preparation for Fall Blau. From my analysis of the scenario and the existing materials found in the GBII/CB combined game set, I made the following observations:

- 1) The forces outlined in notes of the original GBII Scenario 7.7 (including all the German Multi Unit Formations (MUF) marked as “Flexible Forces”) will be the offensive punch of the campaign and will be on the GBII maps for the duration of the scenario. These formations make up approximately 70% of all the mobile division in available in the combined GBII/CB Axis game set.
- 2) Since the world does not end at the map edges, I assume that considerable fighting will continue on the EATG/CB map sets. The remaining 30% of the MUFs (12 formations over the life of the scenario) still pack a considerable offensive capability that the Russians would not be able to ignore.
- 3) From going through the CB revised OOA I discovered that the Germans had pretty much fielded their full army by the start of the scenarios. Most reinforcements are not new units, rather most seem to be units that had been withdrawn for refit then returned, adhoc formations formed to react to critical situations (think Operations Mars/Stalingrad), or units moved from one area to another to counter local conditions. On the other hand, the Russians were continuing to field new formations throughout the timeframe of the scenario.

I also had a couple of requirements before I changed the OOA. First, I wanted to make the reinforcement schedule variable but still have a “realistic” feel to it. Second, I wanted to minimize the number of unit removals from those variable forces. To achieve that, I applied the following (all decision as to probability are my own, and are for all intents and purposes, a guess as to what would have really happened):

- 1) Moved some Russian air units from EATG/CB to GBII at the start of the scenario, approximately 50% of the net after accounting for removed air units. Overall this came to 17% of the fighters, 41% of the bombers, or 29% overall. See table marked “Russian Air Analysis” for full analysis.
- 2) Added approximately 2/3 of the Russian EATG air dead pile to the scenario dead pile.
- 3) Added some German air units from EATG/CB to GBII at the start of the scenario, approximately 50% of the net after accounting for removed air units. Overall this came to 15% of the fighters, 30% of the bombers, or 25% overall. The number of aircraft on the map at the start of the scenario is less than the total in the original GBII 7.7 scenario and of lesser quality. See table marked “Axis Air Analysis” for full analysis
- 4) Added approximately 2/3 of the Axis EATG air dead pile to the scenario dead pile.
- 5) For the Russians, if a ground reinforcement was shown to arrive on the EATG map set, I assigned a 50% probability that it would be sent to GBII instead. If the reinforcement was shown to arrive on the CB map set, that probability increased to 67%, which is the same as probability of receipt for variable replacements. The only units I did not allow the Russians to have a possibility to receive were those that are obviously formed from the deep south Caucus region, my assumption being there were never formed to begin with.
- 6) For Russian air reinforcements, 100% of the “net” EATG and CB reinforcements are eligible to become scenario reinforcements. The probability of receiving those marked EATG is 28%, while those marked CB the probability is 42%. See the Case Blue Scenario 7.16 Supplemental Charts for required die roll and see table marked “Russian Air Analysis” for full analysis.
- 7) The only Russian variable reinforcements that have a possibility of being removed from the OOB once received are units from MUFs and HQs. Players should keep track of these when received.

8) 4 of the 12 Russian reserve markers received on the 1 Oct 42 and 5 Nov 42 turns are now automatically assigned to the GBII map set. The others are EATG variable reinforcements. It is likely the Russian player will receive 8 of the total number.

9) For the Axis, if a ground reinforcement was shown to arrive on the EATG map set, I assigned a 50% probability that it would be sent to GBII instead. If the reinforcement was shown to arrive on the CB map set, that probability increased to 67%, which is the same as probability of receipt for variable replacements. The only land units I did not allow the Axis to have a possibility of receiving via variable reinforcements are Italian, Rumanian, and those that were obviously formed from the deep south Caucus region, my assumption being there were never formed to begin with.

10) I assumed the German 11th Army would not be sent to AGN after the siege of Sevastopol, but instead doled out to the various armies clamoring for reinforcements. I assigned a 50% probability that they would be sent to support the Moscow campaign or added to the Emergency Pool. If received as variable reinforcements, they will not be removed.

11) For Axis air reinforcements, 100% of the “net” EATG and CB reinforcements are eligible to become scenario reinforcements. The probability of receiving those marked EATG is 42%, while those marked CB (there is only one such air unit), the probability is 58%. Even with the increased chances of receiving reinforcements, I expect the Luftwaffe in this scenario to be outnumbered by early 1943. See the Case Blue Scenario 7.16 Supplemental Charts for required die roll and see table marked “Axis Air Analysis” for full analysis.

7) The only Axis variable reinforcements that have a possibility of being removed from the OOB once received are units from MUFs and 3 air transports possibly received in Jan 43. Players should keep track of these when received.

12) Note that some of the Axis EATG variable reinforcements available during November, December, and January will be added to the Emergency Pool rather than being placed on map. This is because those units were formed as a reaction to Operations Mars/Uranus. Since the Germans were actually able to pull these units together, I figured they are assets that could be used in an emergency, hence, into the Emergency Pool they go.

13) The He.111zbV, Do.17 w/Glider, and He.111zbV w/Glider available to the Axis as EATG variable reinforcements on the 1 Jan 43 turn are approximately half of the airlift capability that the Germans scraped together to supply the Stalingrad pocket. I decided to make these 3 units available, but even if received, they will all be removed from the game on the 1 April 43 turn. Likely the Axis player will receive 1 of these units, possibly 2. Hey, use ‘em if you get ‘em.

13) At the bottom of the “Axis CB Scenario 7.3/7.4 vs GBII Scenario 7.7 Setups” chart, note that the original GBII Scenario 7.7 was wildly generous with supplies to the Axis player. With the 5 June start, the situation for the Axis forces is pretty tight (as it always was), even more so since there are only 2 MUFs on the map whose organic trucks are loaded (and one of them is in a pocket), and 4 organic trucks are in the dead pile. I assumed that the German planners thought ahead enough to at least have the supplies available to fill up the organic trucks, with a couple SP to spare. This still leaves less on map supply at the beginning of the game for the Axis player than what is available to the Russians. This factor alone is going to affect game play more than any other.

I have created a VASSAL saved game file for this scenario and made all the changes to the OOB/OOA within the module. Now I need people to play it! I am hoping that at least 2 or 3 groups can play the full scenario to the end and give feedback for further tweeking.

Enjoy!

Edited on 17 September 2019. Changed scenario special rule 10) to read "Russian" rather than "Axis". All other changes were minor verbiage changes to commentary. No changes to the scenario start or reinforcement schedule made.
